REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT

Office of Superintendent of Schools
Bloomfield, N. J.

June 30, 1934.

*To the Board of Education,
Bloomfield, N. J.*

Herewith is presented my sixth annual report as Superintendent of Schools of The Town of Bloomfield, New Jersey. The enrollment of 7,720 pupils for the school year is practically the same as last school year, though we find an increase of 139 pupils in the High School over a year ago. Children who formerly went to work at fourteen or sixteen years of age are finding industries closed to them. Society is saying that these young people should remain in school until sixteen or eighteen years of age or older if it is possible or profitable. We find parents who once had work and were able and willing to maintain a home adequately but who are now without work; many have been forced to accept charity; they have become discouraged, and have fallen heir to all those attitudes and results from feelings of insecurity, and their children often experience the same feeling. Never in the history of our school system have we needed more and better trained teachers and workers than are needed at present. We have always known that children should be healthy, but only recently have we come to realize the close relationship between physical well being and success in school.

The work of adapting our present educational knowledge and equipment to the needs of the handicapped child is a real problem, and one which we must face with courage. We need special classes with equipment suitable to the needs of such pupils so that they may be made "social fits" instead of "misfits" in the complex environment of our modern life.

Our complex and changing civilization is giving education a deeper significance, newer responsibilities, and a vital place in the world's affairs. We are trying to make our schools an important social institution for education is engaged in adapting its program to meet the newer demands of life.

The continuous use of text books and other working material must result in corresponding evidence of physical wear and a greater number of discarded books each term. Already this result is becoming apparent and if a larger working stock is not made available in future budget allotments, it will be necessary eventually to replace all books each year. A greater variety of work material is needed.

Practically all of our schools are now issuing a school paper which is gaining popularity everywhere. The Center School and the Park School each received first honorable mention for the grade of school represented by their publication in a state-wide check up of school publications.

The great event of the school year, as it may affect the High School, was the building of a concrete stadium on the High School Athletic Field, the labor for which was furnished by the Federal Government as an ERA project and the materials were purchased by the High School Athletic Association which was incorporated during the school year. This stadium will seat about 6,500 persons, with ample room for storage and dressing rooms.

The close of the school year brought with it the retirement of Miss Elizabeth Otis as principal of Center School for the past thirty years. We find that Miss Otis completed forty-eight years as a teacher and principal and now desires to retire from active school work. The splendid record she has made in her chosen profession has been recognized by her teachers and the Home and School Association of Center School at their various gatherings.

The school year, along with others of former years, has been a trying one in many respects. The unusually large deduction from salaries of all school employees surely worked a real hardship to many. What success has been attained is due very largely to the splendid co-operation of all school employees and the progressive leadership of our Board of Education.

Respectfully submitted,

EDGAR S. STOVER,
Superintendent of Schools.

REPORTS OF DEPARTMENTS

Medical Inspection

The rules and regulations of the Board of Education provide, as far as possible, that every pupil be given a thorough medical examination each year. This is attempted very early in the school year, so that parents may know of the physical defects of their children. Supplementary examinations are given the pupils who need same from time to time.

The nurses inspect the classrooms and other parts of the school buildings regularly. They render first aid for injuries and visit homes in the interest of informing parents of certain conditions which may tend to improve the health of their children. Parents cooperate in large numbers. Milk is furnished to all pupils at a reduced cost, and where it is found that pupils cannot afford to purchase same either the school or the Home and School Association provide the necessary funds.

SCHOOL SAVING FUND

The vast amount of good which school savings banking has done to impress upon the minds of our children habits of thrift and respect for property is too obvious for comment here. School saving must go on. It has a definite place in our educational program. During the past few years—certainly the most trying in our history—school savings have met the test and they will continue to do so. Considering the financial conditions we feel that the amounts saved by the various schools reflects real credit to all concerned.
